

We want to sponsor you

Go on a Global Live Out trip this year

Many people have experienced God, but have missed the thrill of the Kingdom of God flowing through them. We're on a journey to experience that thrill by continually looking for ways to grow our faith.

We've found that catalytic spiritual growth happens when we exchange our plans for God's plans, engage in community and live out Jesus' love outside of the church.

You have the opportunity this year to experience all three elements of spiritual growth during a cross-cultural Live Out trip. We believe so strongly in the impact of these trips, that we want to help financially support you by funding 10% of your expenses.

To apply for a sponsorship or find out more information, please stop by the Welcome Center or visit indiancreek.org/liveout.

We want to sponsor you

Go on a Global Live Out trip this year

Many people have experienced God, but have missed the thrill of the Kingdom of God flowing through them. We're on a journey to experience that thrill by continually looking for ways to grow our faith.

We've found that catalytic spiritual growth happens when we exchange our plans for God's plans, engage in community and live out Jesus' love outside of the church.

You have the opportunity this year to experience all three elements of spiritual growth during a cross-cultural Live Out trip. We believe so strongly in the impact of these trips, that we want to help financially support you by funding 10% of your expenses.

To apply for a sponsorship or find out more information, please stop by the Welcome Center or visit indiancreek.org/liveout.

You can make a Kingdom impact

Around the corner and around the world

Southern China is vulnerable to severe droughts, and it's common for farmers to lose crops - their only source of income. This was the case for Zhao Fang. During a recent drought, his fields dried up, his corn didn't grow and his family was in physical and financial trouble.

The Chinese government tries to help by building water storage units, but can't provide for everyone. This leaves a gap for the local church to make a tangible impact and share Jesus' love.

Because Creekers just like you generously gave financial gifts, the local church was able to build a water storage unit for Zhao Fang's community. Now his corn grows abundantly and his family is well fed. The church is seen as a hero because they care for his family's need. Opportunities to share the gospel exist now that would have never been there before.

About six months after the water storage unit was constructed, a team with Creekers visited Zhao Fang. Through a translator, he thanked us for not only saving his crops and feeding his family, but for caring for him. One of the local church members worked his crops with him, invited him to church and shared God's love with him. Tears of joy rolled down his cheeks as he repeated, "Xie Xie, Xie xie, Shàngdì bǎoyòu nǐ." In English, "Thank you, thank you, God Bless you."

As part of our Easter celebration today, your entire gift today goes towards Live Out efforts changing lives like Zhao Fang's.

You're able to have this kind of Kingdom impact through Indian Creek because of our dedicated, trusted non-profit partners. To find out about these partnerships, visit indiancreek.org/liveout.

You can make a Kingdom impact

Around the corner and around the world

Southern China is vulnerable to severe droughts, and it's common for farmers to lose crops - their only source of income. This was the case for Zhao Fang. During a recent drought, his fields dried up, his corn didn't grow and his family was in physical and financial trouble.

The Chinese government tries to help by building water storage units, but can't provide for everyone. This leaves a gap for the local church to make a tangible impact and share Jesus' love.

Because Creekers just like you generously gave financial gifts, the local church was able to build a water storage unit for Zhao Fang's community. Now his corn grows abundantly and his family is well fed. The church is seen as a hero because they care for his family's need. Opportunities to share the gospel exist now that would have never been there before.

About six months after the water storage unit was constructed, a team with Creekers visited Zhao Fang. Through a translator, he thanked us for not only saving his crops and feeding his family, but for caring for him. One of the local church members worked his crops with him, invited him to church and shared God's love with him. Tears of joy rolled down his cheeks as he repeated, "Xie Xie, Xie xie, Shàngdì bǎoyòu nǐ." In English, "Thank you, thank you, God Bless you."

As part of our Easter celebration today, your entire gift today goes towards Live Out efforts changing lives like Zhao Fang's.

You're able to have this kind of Kingdom impact through Indian Creek because of our dedicated, trusted non-profit partners. To find out about these partnerships, visit indiancreek.org/liveout.